

In these submitted photos of the first wedding to take place on Haliburton Forest's canopy tour, best man Alan Baird and Maid of Honour Dawn Ahmed lead the way along the boardwalk while bride and groom Maria Frietag and John Robson climb the ladder to the boardwalk a bit more gingerly. Could it be that Frietag was trying to protect her beautiful white wedding dress, which she had cut in half to allow her to be fitted, by Ahmed and a Haliburton Forest guide, into her harness? It was the picture-perfect setting for "you may now kiss the bride."

A wedding close to heaven

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

COUPLES IN LOVE often walk around as if their heads were in a cloud, but it wasn't just romance in the air which created such a heavenly atmosphere at the recent wedding of John Robson and Maria Frietag.

The Kennisis Lake cottagers became the first couple to be married during A Walk in the Clouds at Haliburton Forest.

The nuptials took place 65 feet above the ground on the Forest's canopy tour on September 9.

Even though there were just six people and the minister taking part in the ceremony, it was still an organizational feat for Frietag, who has been cottaging on Kennisis Lake since infancy.

Her plans had to include cutting her dress in two so she could decorously fit into the harness all participants must wear as they make their ascent to the treetops. She attached Velcro to the waistband to piece the dress together so she could look a bit more traditional during the ceremony itself.

Her maid of honour, Dawn Ahmed, was also suitably attired, and the groom and best man, Alan Baird, were probably the first to do the tour dressed in tuxedos. Two girlfriends who joined the festivities were jokingly dubbed "the pack-mules" because it was their job to lug up all the wedding accoutrements.

After the ceremony, the wedding party went to the Domain of Killien. The couple honeymooned in Austria.

The eagles have landed

Newest art sculpture is officially dedicated

MARTHA PERKINS

Early visitors to East Guilford once remarked at the number of eagles soaring overhead.

Today, that same community is home to three eagles who will provide the same sense of visual pleasure and remind people why East Guilford is now called Eagle Lake.

Standing under umbrellas as the rain refused to let up for the ceremony, the people involved in creating the metal sculptures of three eagles acknowledged all the work that goes into such a project.

"Things happen because of the community, they don't happen because of the government," said MP John O'Reilly, who helped lobby for the Human Resources Development Canada funding for the sculpture projects throughout the Highlands, spearheaded by the visual arts committee of the Haliburton County Development Corporation.

The Liberal MP said some parties criticize the federal funding program but "not me. I'll try to get as much of the funding as I can. I don't consider it charity, I consider it an investment in the community."

O'Reilly echoed the words of Barb Bolin, director of the Haliburton campus of Sir Sandford Fleming College, who said Haliburton is steadily getting the reputation as a place which both fosters and celebrates the arts.

In Ottawa, O'Reilly says, "they know Haliburton is the arts, and that it's a beautiful area where everyone wants to live and work and I hope I can contribute to that."

"Haliburton is getting to be a real community of artists and the government is recognizing that," said Bolin, noting that all the people involved in the Eagle Lake project live in the Highlands: Leo Sepa, the Moores Falls sculptor who created the majestic three-dimensional eagle out of metal; Ziggy and Sergio Zrinscak, who created the two silhouettes of eagles; and Roy Truchan, who oversees the project and designed the VA - visual arts - symbol that accompanies each sculpture.

Sculptures at other communities were also officially launched. Artist Dave Hollows, Pam Kinney of the visual arts committee, MP John O'Reilly and Snowdon Reeve Ross Rigney stand in front of Hollows' sculpture of a maple tree in Lochlin.

Rain doesn't dampen spirits

Barb Bolin and Roy Truchan of the visual arts committee, artists Leo Sepa of Moore's Falls and Ziggy and Sergio Zrinscak of Eagle Lake, MP John O'Reilly and Elva Heard of the Eagle Lake Women officially launched the sculpture at Eagle Lake recently. Sepa did the large eagle sculpture while the Zrinscak did the two eaglets.

MARTHA PERKINS/Echo

The grouping of eagles sits in a quiet park overlooking the public beach.

This is the 10th sculpture in the Highlands and Bolin says they've applied for Trillium Foundation funding to create a sculpture forest in Glebe Park in Haliburton. If funding, including that from the federal government, is granted, then people walking along a trail will be able to appreciate the marriage of art and natural beauty that makes the county "A Natural Work of Art," which is the Highlands' new marketing slogan.

Bolin noted that the arts play a significant social and economic role in the county, a role that will only continue to grow.

On Thursday, three other sculptures were dedicated: The Sawyer by Andre Hillo in Stanhope; Maple in the Park by David Hollows in Lochlin; and Memories of an Outpost by Jane Agnew in Wilberforce. Funding for the projects came from the HRDC and the Haliburton County Development Corporation, with help from the municipalities.

Ministry of Health relieves pressure on health board by advancing funding

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

A bit of the pressure is off the Haliburton Highlands Health Services board now that the Ministry of Health has advanced funding to put the board's bank balance back in the black.

As of last month, the board had run out of money in the bank and was going to have to start dipping into its line of credit to pay its bills.

It was agreed a letter would be sent immediately to the Ministry outlining the board's predicament. The Ministry responded quickly by giving the board a cash advance of future funding payments.

But that still doesn't resolve the larger issue of base funding, says the HHHS's executive director.

"The advance will have the effect of temporarily relieving us from having to extend into our line of credit," Foster Loucks said. "In the larger run, we still need an adjustment to our base funding and there's no word on that."

Although the federal and provincial governments recently reached a deal whereby the federal government will flow more money to the provinces for healthcare, Loucks says it appears most of that money won't be transferred until the start of the next fiscal year next March.

The board says studies have shown it is being underfunded by roughly a million dollars a year. When setting the present budget, the board decided to use figures that accurately reflected its funding needs rather than conform to last year's funding level, hence the cashflow problems of today.

First Annual County Junior Masters Golf Tournament attracts 15 competitors

On September 24, the first annual Haliburton County Junior Masters golf tournament took place at PineStone Golf Club. Fifteen of Haliburton County's most serious young golfers competed for prizes and trophies on a glorious fall afternoon. Six golfers competed in the Junior Division (ages 14 - 17) and nine competed in the Bantam Division (13 and under).

The top finishers were as follows:

Bantam Division (Red Tees - 5448 yards): Mike Lennox, 75; Jesse Johnson, 86; and Cody Mills, 89.

Junior Division (White Tees - 6024 yards): Shawn Hemming, 88; Andy Dawson, 89; and Gord Timbers, 92.

Shawn Hemming won the post-tournament putting contest. Gord Timbers and Jesse Johnson took "Longest Drive" honours, while Mike Lennox and Andy Dawson won for "Closest to the Pin."

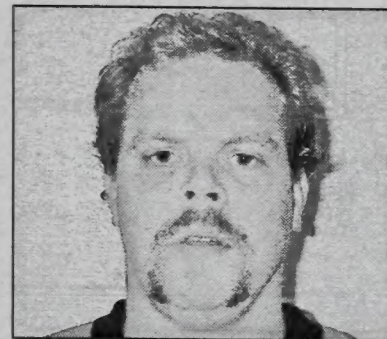

Tournament organizer Mike Lennox would like to thank the sponsors for their generous contributions.

A great time was had by all and everyone was asking about the details for next year's tournament. It looks like the start of another fine Highland tradition!

Haliburton Men's Hockey League Players of the week

Ron Yake

Shawn Stoughton

The following are the Haliburton Men's Hockey 'Players of the Week':

Game #1: Ron Yake kept the score close by scoring several key goals in the Emmerson Allstars 7 - 6 win against the Sid Stamp Predators.

Game #2: Shawn Stoughton stole the show by scoring four goals including the game winner in overtime as the McColl Senators won against the Churko/Curry Blues, 8 - 7.

Atom A's open with win

by Patti Tallman

Welcome to a new year of Haliburton Husky Atom A hockey. We have Ian Sachs in goal, and Mitch Vasey, Tyler Watson, Steven Miscio, Adam DeCarlo, Kenton Winn, Dallyn Smith, Max Ambridge, Jesse Tallman, Matthew Johnston, Daniel Paul and Ryan Scheffee as a great assortment of offensive and defensive players. The coaching staff is Dan Ambridge, Ted Vasey, Debbie and Scott Watson, and Jim Winn.

What better way to start a year with a win for the home opener against Huntsville? The teams were evenly matched with the shots on goal 24 to 23 in favour of Huntsville. Huntsville started off the game with a 2 - 0 lead at the end of the first period.

The Huskies came back in the second period with Matthew Johnston scoring, assisted by Dallyn Smith. Then Tyler Watson tied it up, assisted by Kenton Winn and Max Ambridge. But with 22 seconds left, Huntsville went ahead 3 - 2.

After a short breather, the Huskies came out in the third period and Dallyn Smith scored the tying goal, assisted by Max Ambridge and Mitch Vasey. Three minutes later, Matthew Johnston scored, assisted by Max Ambridge and Dallyn Smith. With a strong hold, Huntsville tied it up four minutes later. After lots of hard work and only 27 seconds left, Tyler Watson scored the go-ahead goal, assisted by Adam DeCarlo and Kenton Winn for a 5 - 4 win.

Thanks to Ian for a great home opener. What an awesome game with great plays from all the boys! Good luck next week.

Novice A's suffer tough loss

by Sherrill Sherwood

Defenseman J.L. Frybort's five-year experience as a Haliburton Husky showed itself plainly five minutes into the Husky Novice A's first game together, on Sunday in Omeme. Being properly positioned inside the offensive blue line brought J.L. an opportunity for a long hard shot on the Omeme net, showing proof of his competence as a centreman earlier in his hockey career. Although that one was saved, Haliburton was already on the score board. Jay Winfield's shot on net started the play that ended with a nice goal by Brady Yavis, assisted by Scott Griffith, 11 seconds into the game.

Victory was short lived as Omeme put two flying missiles, shaped like pucks, past goalie Nathan Woodcock in the first period. Another Omeme goal, in the second period, would tell the story of the final 3-1 score for the home team. The rest of the tale however, would reveal a magnificent looking Husky team in matching blue and white uniforms strongly reminiscent of the Toronto Maple Leafs' dress style.

Good passes, determined wingers and centreman, few offside, defensive play that shut down the opponents, effective goaltending, and lighting in the arena that cast a yellowish/orange glow on the ice, would begin to explain the remaining minutes of play. This clean game went by quickly for fans and players alike.

The Novice As are home the night of October 20 against Fenelon Falls.

No price increase on snowmobile trails for next two years

OFSC Clubs act to improve trails by re-distributing revenues

In anticipation that all snowmobilers riding Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs trails could soon be required by provincial law to buy a permit, the OFSC recently decided that the trail permit fee will not increase for the next two seasons.

For the upcoming winter, the price of a full season permit will remain at $150 ($120 if purchased by December 1st), and $180 if purchased on the trail. A one day permit will sell for $30.

The price of a trail permit for the 2001/02 winter will also remain the same, except for the on-trail charge, which will rise to $200 for anyone caught riding without one.

Although most snowmobile clubs are faced with a financial crunch due to a shortage of money for trail grooming, delegates also rescinded a year-old proposal for a $300 non-resident permit, in favour of establishing new sources of operational funding with the province.

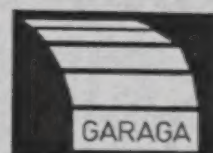

"By listening to snowmobilers, our clubs know what their market will bear," noted OFSC President Dennis Burns. "The delegates have taken responsible action to hold the line on permit prices for the next two years to allow our customers to enjoy normal winter weather, and to lay the ground work for a new government partnership to secure and sustain the $1-billion economic impact of snowmobiling in Ontario."

In related permit news, convention delegates unanimously approved a new equalization concept for funding snowmobile trail operations. When implemented, more dollars will flow to local clubs with limited resources. The OFSC says this will help ensure that even snowmobile clubs with long trails, limited permit sales, and heavy tourism traffic have the ability to meet the expectation for consistent trail quality regardless of their location in Ontario.

"The current shortfall for trail operations from our user pay system is still about $6 million each season, and we are working very closely with the Province of Ontario to start closing this gap immediately," said Burns. "By approving this new concept, our clubs are showing good faith by doing their part to ensure that our internal distribution of permit dollars is more equitable, and that more of their money is going where it is needed most."

I would like to hear from someone who would be willing to take on the pleasant task of reporting the Dorset News for the local newspapers. I have written the news items that I could glean, and sent the collection into papers under the title "The Dorset News" for the past 30 years, but I feel that someone younger and better informed on what goes on in the community, could do a better job. Or to be honest, I feel that I am due for retirement. I intended to retire when I was 90, but missed that birthday and suddenly realized that my next birthday in May 2001 I would be 95. I have enjoyed doing the news over the years but I feel it is time to say "Au Revoir" to reporting as a hobby.

OPP Police Briefs

Keen eye and quick tip to police leads to arrest of three

Break-Ins and Thefts

On the morning of Sunday, September 10, a local resident spotted two male youths intentionally crashing a small boat into the rocks on the Beech River in Stanhope Township. The youths then abandoned the boat on the beach of Beech Lake.

The pair was observed to be picked up by a third male, with all three quickly leaving the area travelling east on the Northshore Road.

Police were immediately contacted and given a description of the vehicle, licence plate, and the three suspects.

A short time later, Haliburton Highlands OPP officers located three males and vehicle at a cottage on the Northshore Road. The three were arrested and subsequent investigation resulted in charges in relation to a number of cottage break-ins and thefts.

The males, from the Newmarket area, will appear in Minden Provincial Court in October to face a number of property offence charges. Names cannot be released due to the Young Offenders Act.

Break and Enter

As the result of an investigation by the Haliburton Highlands Detachment and the Central Region Street Unit of the Ontario Provincial Police, two young offenders have been charged with a series of break and enters in Lutterworth Township.

In June, numerous cottages on Gull Lake had been entered. Numerous items were stolen, including a large quantity of alcohol. There was also vandalism to some of the cottages.

On September 14, a 17-year-old male from Everett, Ontario, and a 14-year-old male from Toronto were charged with four counts of break, enter and theft. They appear in Minden court on October 11.

Stolen Car

While police were recovering a stolen car that had been abandoned in Gooderham, a Gooderham resident was chasing the people allegedly responsible for stealing his vehicle.

Joseph Billings was able to notify police that he was following three males and a female who were driving his vehicle east of Gooderham, says a report from the Haliburton Highlands OPP. The police were in the area, investigating the discovery of a car that had been stolen from Peterborough.

Billings' vehicle was eventually abandoned and the suspects disappeared on foot.

The Haliburton Highlands OPP, in conjunction with the district canine unit, Sault Ste. Marie canine unit and members of the Victoria-Haliburton emergency response unit conducted a search of the area.

One male adult from Peterborough and two male and one female young offenders were subsequently charged with theft, possession of stolen property and break of probation.

Work with a Professional Renovator

HALIBURTON COUNTY HOME BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

October is Renovation Month

This fall, the Canadian Home Builders' Association (CHBA) is inviting homeowners across the country to attend a series of special activities and events to help them "do it right, work with a professional renovator".

Renovation Month is an annual CHBA consumer campaign, sponsored by Beaver Lumber and supported by Natural Resources Canada, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and other housing industry partners.

The CHBA represents Canada's housing experts from coast to coast. "Each year, Canadian homeowners invest billions of dollars on home improvements," says Ken Sawatsky, President of the CHBA. "Renovation Month is an opportunity for homeowners to explore what's new and exciting in renovation, and to find out about the benefits of working with a professional renovator."

Each October, local Home Builders' Associations across the country organize open houses, parades of renovations, seminars, displays and a host of other public activities. It is an ideal time for homeowners who are thinking about renovating to see what others have done, get ideas about design and products, learn about energy efficiency and indoor air quality, and meet the professional renovation contractors in their community.

"With the help of a professional renovator and modern building technology, homeowners can enjoy all the benefits of up-to-date home comfort and convenience, no matter what the age of their home," says Sawatsky.

Contact the Haliburton County Home Builders' Association for more information.

Picture it...

Work with a professional renovator

Home renovation begins with a vision. Just thinking about renovating can spark your imagination and excitement as you talk, plan and dream about the changes you want to make to your home. It also raises questions—about ideas, designs, materials, and how to get the best value on the investment you are about to make in your home.

"Get your renovation off to a good start by hiring a professional," advises Ken Sawatsky, President of the Canadian Home Builders' Association (CHBA). "A professional renovator will work with you from the very beginning of your project to develop your plans and then turn them into reality. In the end, the results are often more satisfying than you thought possible."

Going from vision to firm plans is a gradual process as you explore your options and consider your needs, wants and budget. An experienced renovator can help you determine what's right for you and your family, and how to bring the best out in your home. They will offer ideas and suggestions, create custom-tailored designs, and help you to choose materials and products that are most suitable for your project and your budget.

Often there is more to renovating than meets the eye. A professional renovator can assess the potential impact of your project on the rest of the house, and point out opportunities to increase the comfort, energy efficiency and indoor air quality of your home.

Once the plans for your project are in place, a professional renovator will make sure that the work is done right, with minimum of inconvenience to you and your family. They will prepare a detailed work plan. They will be considerate of your schedule and your needs during renovation. They will let you know what's going on every step of the way and will always be ready to discuss your questions or concerns.

Sawatsky stresses that professional renovators do business the right way. They provide a written contract so there is a clear, legally enforceable record of the agreement between you and them. They are also covered by liability insurance and workers' compensation to protect you, your home and anyone working on your project in the event of an accident. Picture it—working with a professional renovator to make your dreams come true. Enjoy expert advice, quality results and the peace of mind that comes with doing it right.

"An Independent Broker Covers You Best"

HALIBURTON COUNTY  HOME BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

Ten good reasons to work with a professional renovator

Renovating your home should be a positive experience—enjoyable and free from worry and stress. You should have full confidence in your renovator and know that you are getting the best. That's why you should choose a professional renovator.

From start to finish. A professional renovator will help you to put it all together—from ideas to design, from products to plans, from construction to completion.

Experienced advice. The heart of their business is getting you the best of all worlds—a renovation that suits your family, your home and your budget. They listen, make suggestions, and look for the best way of doing things.

Technical know-how. In the end, the success of your project depends on the skills of your renovator. Professional renovators understand construction, how to deal with challenges and problems, and how to improve the comfort of your home.

Expert teamwork. Behind every professional renovator, there is a solid network of staff, subtrades and suppliers ready to go to work for you.

A proven track record. Their business is an open book. You can talk with past customers, look at previous work and check out the renovator's reputation.

Accurate estimates. No need to be concerned about low-ball costing, inferior work or escalating prices once the job begins. Experienced renovators know what it takes to do something right and how much it costs, and they'll tell you upfront.

A written contract. Trust alone is not enough; professionals back it up with a written contract that spells your project out in detail—what, how, who, when and how much.

Liability insurance and workers compensation coverage. Better safe than sorry. In the unlikely event of an accident or damage to your own or neighbouring properties, a professional renovator's coverage protects you from liability and cost.

Warranty. Like any other consumer purchase, a professional renovation comes with a warranty on labour. And with professional installation, there is no risk of voiding the manufacturers' warranties on materials and products.

Service, service, service. Professional renovators are in business for the long term. They strive to make every renovation a pleasant and successful experience. Your satisfaction is their best proof that they did it right!

Just contact the Haliburton County Home Builders' Association and ask for the names of renovator members. Also ask for information about renovation and upcoming consumer events. Enjoy the comfort of a renovated home

Most homeowners plan to renovate for a very specific reason—updating the kitchen, increasing living space or installing new exterior siding and windows, for instance. Whatever the reason, your renovation presents an excellent opportunity to bring your home up to modern standards of comfort.

Your sense of comfort depends on your lifestyle and preferences. In addition, the physical condition of your home is a significant factor—a comfortable home is well built, convenient and healthy to live in.

One of the great benefits of working with professional renovators is that they can help you look at the big picture. Professional renovators understand the science behind renovation. They are experienced in construction and design options. They are familiar with the latest products and techniques. And they know that a house is a system where all parts must work together in order to provide you with a comfortable and healthy living environment.

The comfort of well-planned space. Layout has a great effect on the comfort of your home. Professional renovators can help you to reconfigure your existing space or integrate it with additional new space in the most effective way. They can work with you to develop comfortable, common areas for shared family living or private, peaceful spaces for personal enjoyment. They can show you how to take advantage of under-utilized space in your home and create easy transitions between indoor and outdoor spaces.

The comfort of healthy indoor air. Renovation offers an opportunity to do contractor for your renovation project is key to getting the results you want. The sooner you get someone involved, the more you can benefit from their knowledge and expertise. It is usually a good idea to look for a renovator before you begin any detailed planning. With a little legwork, you should have no trouble finding the person who is best suited for your project.

How to find the right contractor

Finding the right

Know what to look for. What kind of person would you trust to work on your home? First, you want someone with a solid reputation, good experience and the right skills. Someone with liability insurance and workers' compensation coverage so your home and your interests are protected, and a customer warranty program in case follow-up work is needed. You also want a renovator who will listen to you and understand what you want. In other words, you want a professional.

Contact The Haliburton County Home Builders' Association for the names of professional renovators in your community. Members have access to the latest information on all aspects of renovation, and they voluntarily agree to do business by the Association's Code of Ethics which sets out a framework for fair and honest business practices. Check the Internet at www.chba.ca for the names of renovator members as well as valuable renovation advice for homeowners.

Ask friends, family, co-workers and neighbours for recommendations if they have had professional renovation work done recently. Also look around your neighbourhood for renovation projects underway and talk with the homeowners. Most people enjoy sharing their renovation experiences.

Visit home shows. Many professional renovation companies participate in local home shows. This is a perfect opportunity to meet the renovators in your community, check out their displays and pick up company literature. Many local Home Builders' Associations also have a booth at home shows where you can get helpful information.

Ask suppliers and retailers of building materials, products and hardware. Established renovators have a network of suppliers that they do business with regularly, from lumber yards to kitchen cabinet manufacturers. Visit your local suppliers and ask for the names of renovators that would be suitable for your project.

Check local advertising. "Neighbourhood renovators" may be experts in the construction, design and community characteristics of your area. Look in your community newspaper for advertisements by established companies. Review flyers and other promotional materials that come to your door.

"Let your fingers do the walking". Look in the Yellow Pages™ under renovations, renovation contractors, home improvement, home builders, building contractors, alteration contractors and construction for the names of contractors. Look for ads that tell you a little about the company's expertise and check for logos that indicate the professionalism of the company, such as membership in the local Home Builders' Association.

By the way... If your renovation project is modest, you may think that the "top" renovators in your community are beyond your budget. This is probably not the case. In reality, most companies work on a range of projects, from small to large-scale renovations. If they cannot take your project for some reason, they may be able to recommend other, suitable companies.

Above all, take your time. Investing a little of your time upfront to find a renovator will be well worth it in the long run. When you begin with a list of professional renovators, the next step is easy—interviewing, checking credentials and hiring the company that is right for your project. Do it right—work with a professional renovator!

Renovation can make a big difference in the pleasure you get from your home

something about the air in your home. If you have indoor air problems such as molds, mildew, dust or stale winter air, a professional renovator may suggest tackling the underlying causes as part of your renovation. Measures may include reducing moisture and air penetration into your home and getting rid of old carpets.

Your renovator can recommend environmentally friendly, low off-gassing products to protect the air quality in your home. During the actual work, care is taken to minimize the impact on your living environment through ventilation and dust barriers. And for your long-term comfort, the installation of a whole-house ventilation system may be recommended to ensure a continuous flow of fresh air in your home.

The comfort of energy efficiency. A professional renovator can help you to achieve even better results by upgrading the energy efficiency of your home as part of your project. For example, if you want to turn the main level into an open-concept great room, the first step may be insulation in the basement, so the entire family can enjoy barefoot comfort on the main floor all year round. When you are re-siding your home, extra insulation, air-sealing and perhaps new windows can turn it into a snug and cozy place to live.

The comfort of convenience. The right working spaces; the right products; ample storage; no hard-to-reach places; easy-clean surfaces; low-maintenance—it all boils down to everyday convenience and easy living. A professional renovator knows what's possible, what's available and what works.

Picture it—the comfort of your renovated home. Do it right: contact the Haliburton County Home Builders' Association for the names of professional renovators in the area.

How to Hire a professional renovator

One of the most important renovation decisions you can make is to work with a professional renovation contractor. The first step is to collect names of companies that seem well suited for your project. Once you have a promising list, it's time to meet the renovators in your home, one at a time. The purpose of the first meeting is to get acquainted with each renovator and the services of their company.

The next step is to ask for a detailed cost estimate from the renovators you would like to work with. With these bids in hand, you can then narrow your selection down to the single company that you believe will deliver the best overall value and results.

Prepare a list of questions and discussion points in advance. Make sure you cover the same ground with every company, otherwise you can't really compare them.

Discuss your project. Be ready to talk about your proposed renovation in some detail. Outline your plans and what you want to achieve. Show photos, brochures and product samples you may have collected. Ask each renovator for their opinions and ideas.

Never hire someone without a contract

No matter how small the job, you need to have it in writing. Without a contract, you will have no recourse
if problems occur later.

Experienced renovators often see possibilities that homeowners may overlook. They also know what's possible from a technical point of view, and they can tell you about the latest products and styles.

Find out what services they offer. Ask each renovator to explain their services. Many renovators provide a full range of planning and design services in addition to the on-site work. Sometimes the best approach is to have a separate design contract with a renovator to develop the plans and specifications. Once the design and specifications are finalized, you can tender the actual work for competitive bidding, or you may choose to continue to work with the same renovator.

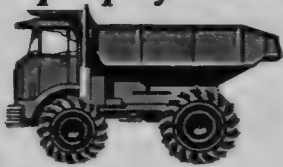

Ask about their experience and past projects. At the first meeting, professional renovators will come prepared with information on themselves, their company and previous projects. Find out about their background; how long they have been in business; special skills and expertise; their on-site crew and subtrades; and business and community affiliations. It is also fair to ask if they have the relevant experience and skills needed for your particular job,

Your renovation contract is your protection

Whenever you hire someone to do renovation work on your home—whether the job is small or large—you want to make sure that you have a proper, written contract before the work begins.

A contract defines the agreement between you and the renovator. It also gives you legal recourse if the renovation goes off track and will protect you in the event of damage or accidents, or against claims by unpaid subcontractors.

Professional renovation contractors work with a written contract—it is part and parcel of doing things right. A contract ensures that you and your renova-tor are agreeing to the same thing and outlines the responsibilities of each party. Just as important, it verifies the contractor's liability insurance and workers' compensation coverage. If a renovator does not want to provide a written contract, it should raise some serious doubts for you about the person's pro-

Choose a professional for your job

and why they think they are the right company for your project.

Invite selected renovators to submit a cost estimate. At the end of the first meeting, you may be ready to ask the renovator for a formal cost proposal. Or perhaps you want to take some time to think about it. Either way, bids from three companies are usually enough. Make sure that everyone is working with the same detailed information, or you won't be able to compare bids properly. Don't expect a renovator to give you a detailed price on the spot. However, experienced renovators may be able to give you a ballpark figure at the first meeting which will help to set the financial framework for your discussion.

Check references. Even if your first impression is positive, you should always follow up on the references provided by the renovator. Ask previous clients about their satisfaction with the company and the work. Would they hire the renovator again or recommend the company to family or friends? If they offer any negative comments, ask for details.

Compare bids carefully. Review each bid in detail to make sure that everything is included. Most often, the bids of experienced renovators are reasonably close. If there is a big difference in price, check that the renovators are specifying the same quality materials and are offering to do the same work. Verify that taxes are included in the price. When a job is "low-balled", you may need to look beyond the bid itself. Is it clear that your job will be covered by a warranty? Does the renovator carry liability insurance and workers' compensation? Are you confident that this company will deliver what you want, on time and on budget?

Never hire someone without a contract. No matter how small the job, you need to have it in writing. Without a contract, you will have no recourse if problems occur later. At a minimum, details should include a description of the work, the materials used, start and finish dates, as well as the price and payment schedule. Professional renovators use either their own contract or a standard industry contract. It is a good idea to ask your lawyer to review it before you sign.

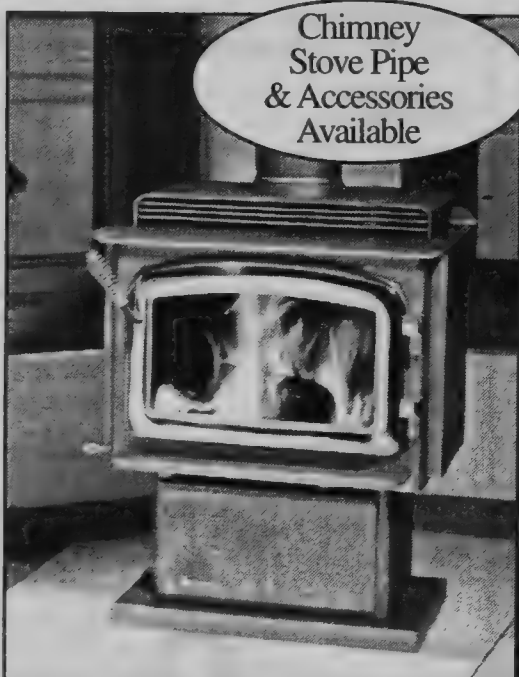

Now that you have hired a renovator, you are ready to get down to the actual work. When you work with a professional renovator, it will be done right!

The complexity of the contract will vary according to the scale of your project, but most contracts will contain the standard information outlined below. — The parties to the contract (i.e., you and the renovation contractor), including street addresses and telephone numbers.

— The contract documents (a list of all documents that make up the contract):

— Start and completion dates often includes a statement about which dates are firm, which dates may be subject to circumstances beyond the renovator's control or changes to the work, and final completion date.

— Terms of payment set out the total amount of the contract and a payment schedule: deposit upon signing the contract; how and when the remainder will be paid (at regular intervals or specific milestones), and the treatment of taxes.

— Holdbacks are a provincial legislative requirement that protects you against subcontractors who may place a lien on your property in the event of non-payment by the renovation contractor. On each payment you make to your renovator, you must hold back a certain percentage for a specified time.

Renovate with EnerGuide

Whether you want to improve the comfort of your home, reduce your heating bills or do your part in cutting down on greenhouse gases released into the environment, making your home more energy efficient is a winning proposition.

EnerGuide for Houses makes it easy for homeowners to decide where and how to make the most effective energy improvements. This program was developed by the Office of Energy Efficiency of Natural Resources Canada to provide homeowners with a quality-assured service for measuring the energy performance of their home and a good starting point for making wise renovation decisions.

The core of the program is an independent, third-party assessment of your home's energy performance and the opportunities for improvement by a specially trained evaluator. There are authorized specialists in every province and region.

Similar to other EnerGuide programs for appliances, heating and air conditioning systems, and new vehicles, EnerGuide for Houses includes a rating and label, which shows on a scale from 0 to 100 how the energy performance of your home compares to that of other homes. The evaluator's report also shows how the recommended improvements will affect the rating. Once energy upgrading of your home has been completed, a second evaluation can verify the exact energy gains achieved.

EnerGuide for Houses was introduced in 1998, and already thousands of homeowners have taken advantage of it. Evaluation results to date show clearly that there are significant opportunities for energy improvements in most existing homes, particularly those built before the 1980s.

Recommendations are based on a realistic assessment of the gains that can be reasonably achieved in a home depending on its age. They address both renovation work that you may want to do in the short term as well as opportunities for future energy upgrades.

On average, the potential energy savings in homes built between 1945 and 1980 are about 25% of the home's energy consumption, and close to one third in homes built prior to 1945.

Most frequent recommendations include upgrading doors and windows (69% of all evaluations), insulating ceilings (49%), replacing furnaces (46%) and insulating basements (41%). Other common recommendations are draft proofing (28% on average across Canada but much higher in provinces with a large percentage of older homes) and upgraded wall insulation (8%). Ventilation issues are also addressed in the recommendations to ensure good indoor air quality in your home.

For more information about EnerGuide for Houses, or for a referral to an evaluator in your area, contact the Office of Energy Efficiency of Natural Resources Canada at 1 800 387 2000, or visit oeenrncan.gc.ca on the Internet.

A written contract is your best renovation tool homeowners themselves, such as flooring, fixtures or cabinets.

Standards of work describe the renovator's commitment to performing the work in accordance with the contract documents and in a diligent and workmanlike manner with minimum inconvenience to your household, to protect your property as well as neighbouring properties and to comply with regulatory requirements. Includes responsibility for daily clean-up.

The renovator's liability insurance and workers' compensation coverage must be paid up to date and proof of coverage provided. Copies can be attached to the contract.

Municipal and/or utility permits, inspections and approvals are usually arranged by professional renovators as part of their service (note that homeowners are ultimately responsible for complying with these regulations). The contract should specify who will obtain them.

The renovator's warranty describes what is covered and for how long. It should include a statement of the contractor's intent to hand over manufacturers' product warranties to you upon completion of work.

Subcontractors scheduled to work on your home may be listed.

Signage: the contract often includes a statement that you will permit the contractor to display a company sign on your property during the renovation.

Dispute resolution in the event of a conflict; may include the name of a third party arbitrator, or state the agreement by both parties to binding arbitration.

A written contract is your best renovation tool. It is also a solid indication that you are working with a professional renovator. Do it right—get it in writing.

HALIBURTON COUNTY HOME BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

The Home Builders' Association:

First stop on the road to home renovation

You have decided to renovate your home. How do you make sure that your renovation is a success? What steps are involved? How do you get expert advice in planning the details of your project? Where do you find a renovator?

"One of the first things homeowners should do is to contact their local Home Builders' Association for information and the names of professional renovators," says Ken Sawatsky, President of the Canadian Home Builders' Association (CHBA). "We can help you to get off to a great start."

The CHBA represents Canada's professional renovation and new home building industry. With a network of national, provincial and local offices across the country, homeowners have easy access to information, ideas and practical advice on a wide range of renovation issues.

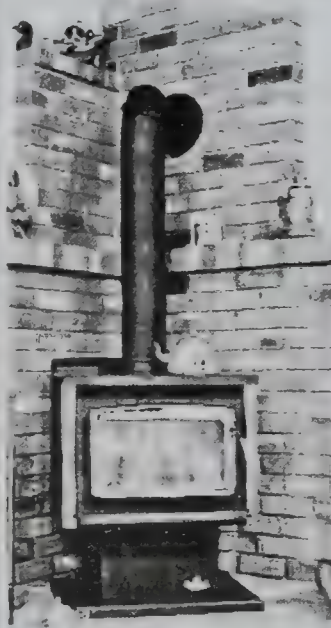

You can contact your local HBA by telephone and ask that information be mailed or faxed to you. Many HBAs are also online, or you can check the CHBA's national Web site at www.chba.ca for member listings. This site offers a comprehensive Home Renovation Resource Centre for consumers, complete with downloadable worksheets.

Local HBAs take the industry into the heart of the community, through events such as Renovation Month, home shows, open houses and seminars, where homeowners can meet renovators, discuss their projects and learn about the process. Contact your local HBA for a schedule of upcoming consumer events.

One of the cornerstones of the Association is professional development for its members. "The industry is constantly changing, with new products and better ways of doing things appearing all the time," says Sawatsky. "When renovators keep their knowledge and skills up to date, both they and their customers benefit."

Members voluntarily agree to do business by the Association's Code of Ethics, which emphasizes the importance of dealing fairly and honestly with consumers. Look for the CHBA logo when you are in the market for renovation services. Do it right—work with a professional renovator.

Technically superior... simply the best!

Race ends with a hot shower and a claim of sanity

Men admit women racers have the most perserverance

Here's a sequel to the 36-hour "Raid the North" adventure event which left Eagle Lake and Silver Eagle Resort during Friday night, September 22, and whose participants were due to cross the finish line here sometime during Sunday afternoon.

3:50 p.m. Sunday: The resort seems deceptively tranquil after Friday night's frenzy. A few weary souls packing up. Marj Kennedy, proprietress, Mother Hen, eyes like two burned holes in a blanket, from lack of sleep, still fretting about the hypothermia some contestants might have suffered. For it has teemed rain from Friday night until Sunday morning, becoming progressively colder, though now the sun is out which raises spirits.

The first to return at 7:59 a.m. Sunday was the group "Team Spirit", three men, one woman. It seems they were also the winners in the four other Canadian events this summer.

But, steadily approaching up the lake are two canoes abreast - again, three men, one woman. A brisk wind splashes water over the gunwales. This is the "A Sunoy" (Cherokee for Night Hawk) group. They disembark but must haul the canoes 20 feet up the beach to the finish line banner. Then it's congratulations all round with hugs and scattered applause. Group six is in.

They are wet, the men in Spandex shorts, barked shin sporting a shin plaster, legs red blotched with cold. Wendy has long pants (synthetic, as "cotton kills") but her feet and shoes are wet and caked with mud. Yet these trekkers bubble with enthusiasm and we sit briefly in the sun and talk.

eagle lake news

rhubarb patch

Ruth Still
754-2602

At 5:00 a.m. Saturday they are dropped off at the far end of lake Opeongo. They paddle for seven hours down the lake, arriving at first checkpoint about noon - and it rains. No support group here so no food but the bars and water in their backpacks.

They mount their bikes and set off, maybe it's an old logging trail but muddy and slithery in this downpour. Seven hours later with dusk coming on they reach second checkpoint - and it rains. But support group is here with change of clothes and a meal to satisfy the craving for salt: soup, pasta, rice, chips. A check of their mandatory safety gear and now they trek.

There is no path, they are guided by compass, topographical map, sixth sense. Toward morning they search for a marked lake and suddenly Wendy spots it through the mist and trees, also a store with a parked bus. Elation turns to despair as they all realize she is hallucinating. But the rain is lessening as it becomes colder. They slog on, savoring the resources their body can muster when they think that they are too exhausted to go on. Moose Lake is eventually reached and the paddle home is almost anti-climatic.

These are weary people but completely happy and fulfilled. As well as being a physical challenge is has also been a psychological one - making decisions which save or extend the trip when one is too weary to thin. And the compulsory woman in each group? The men agree that it is she who has most fortitude and dogged perseverance. Something biological from child bearing perhaps?

And they grin at me as they head for a hot shower, "We're not crazy you know. This is fun."

Highlands Concert Series wraps up for another year

Bill and Edna Burden have had two weeks in Newfoundland where they visited all of Bill's aunts and uncles around Harbour Bay and Trinity.

They were accompanied by Paula and Mike Pearsell and it was of special interest to Mike and Edna to see Pier 21 where they were brought as very young children to Canada from England by their mother, Edna Pearsell, to join their father in Haliburton after what was then a lengthy and hard travel via Kingston and Lindsay.

George and Ruth Pacey of Renfrew were guests last weekend of Perry and Kay Morrison.

Welcome, belatedly, to Tracey

Our guests over the weekend were Shirley Rapson and Michael, Wende, Mackenzie and Thomas Rapson.

"Wingfield Unbound", last Sunday, completed Highlands Concert Series for the year. Tris Lyra and Richard Raymond, pianist, were the two preceding concerts. The committee hopes to bring you concerts of equal quality in the coming year.

We welcome you on the committee if you can join us at Rails' End Gallery for monthly meetings, third Tuesday, p.m.'s usually. Give me a call if you would like to attend.

Dale Walker, Gord Monk and Dave Gray of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation were happy to receive a pledge of $10,000 from Glenn and Don Hall of Floyd Hall Insurance Brokers Limited last week. Also, since Floyd Hall Limited has dealt with many insurance companies over the years, Don Hall, at the time a Board Member and Capital Campaign Committee Member, approached several insurance companies to ask for their support. Combined, Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company, Gore Insurance, Wawanesa Mutual Insurance Company and Pilot Insurance contributed a total of $13,500 to the Foundation as well.

Women's institute receives thank you from Queen Mother's Lady-in-Waiting for 100th birthday card

The September meeting of the Minden Women's Institute was held at the home of Delores Cartmill. The roll "A memory that you have of when you were without electricity" was answered by 15 members.

President Jean Cox thanked everyone for their food and help at the Home and Garden Show, also for help at the Quilt Show. She showed us a lovely child's suit that Lynn Hancock had knit for our exhibit at the fair; also, a thank you card from the Lady-in-Waiting for the Queen Mother.

Rita Baird, on behalf of the Women's Institute, had sent a birthday card to the Queen Mother on her 100th birthday.

The card convenor was unable to attend, but a collection for this and Pennies for Friendship were taken. Mary Cox, District Director, gave her report of meeting at Baddow. She will be the delegate for the Victoria East District at the convention in Toronto on October 20 and 21.

Delores Cartmill and Rita Baird are the delegates for the Minden W.I.

Mary Cox

Minden branch. There will be a workshop for the district, time and place at a later date.

The Women's Institute will be serving lunch at Hyland Crest on October 12.

Pam Rolfe, convenor of Canadian Industries, gave an interesting paper on the smaller industries that we have in the county and surrounding area. Some men subsidize their income by trapping, logging and cutting wood, some using portable sawmills. A large number of men are employed by trucking companies. There are a varied number of artisans who make and sell their products. She emphasized the fact that this county survives on people taking the initiative, using their time and talent in a small way to become successful and happy. She was given a round of applause.

The winner of the draw was Lynn Hancock. The meeting adjourned. Tea and lunch was enjoyed by all. The next meeting is October 18 at the Common Room with all ladies welcome.

Community Police help make Monmouth safer

Citizens of our community and country remember and celebrate the life of the Rt Hon Pierre Elliott Trudeau who died on Thursday, September 28, 2000, in his eighty-first year.

A man of passion and reason, and great intellect, who believed in a just society, in a united society, a leader who will be well remembered by all, those who agreed with him and those who did not for many reasons.

On September 28, 2000, a Community Policing quarterly zone meeting was hosted by the Wilberforce and Area Police Volunteer Association in the Lloyd Watson Centre. It was attended by Inspector Thompson, acting Inspector Bill Snoddon from Orillia Headquarters, Staff Sgt Bob Walli and a number of other officers, Reeve Keith Tallman and representatives of the Dorset, Glamorgan, Kennisis Lake, Minden, Stanhope-Carnarvon, and Wilberforce Community Policing Groups. An approximate total of 42 people attended.

Keith Tallman spoke on how well the Community Police have helped to make our community safer. He also spoke of Monmouth's assistance and support and hope for continued work in the new municipality.

The OPP reported that Monmouth property crimes are down almost 50% from the same time last year. This is really nice to hear. As of mid-September, 2000, the Wilberforce and Area Police Volunteer Association is now on the Internet under www.wapva.org and it has been well searched already.

The House Party at the Monmouth Curling Club on Sunday, October 1, 2000, was a time to register for a new season of curling in Wilberforce. People enjoyed a pleasant time over refreshments as they anticipated participation in the various leagues. Harold Bebbington was the lucky winner in the free membership draw. There's still time to register for curling. Forms are available from the township office and fees can be paid there.

The Covenant Players Drama Group were part of St. Margaret's Church Service Sunday, October 1, 2000. It was also the Harvest Thanksgiving Service. At the United Church Rev. Wendell Sedgwick celebrated Holy Communion.

In the awards ceremony during Legion Week a number of people were honoured. They included from the Ladies Auxiliary, Vicky Shcherbak, Cynthia Goodison, Joan Clark and Jan Simon; and from the Legion, Bonnie Jessup, Charles Clarkson, Michael Clancy, Jan Sorensen, Cynthia Goodison, Mike Bryan and Harry Dale.

Do drop by the Wilberforce Fire Hall on Thanksgiving Saturday, October 7, between 11 and 3, for their Open House.

There's a display of the history of the department since 1959, fire prevention information as well as the equipment on display. Free photos of the kids on the fire truck will be taken and there's coffee, pop and sweets. We are proud of our volunteer firefighters. Let them know by going to the fire hall for a visit.

The annual Thanksgiving Turkey Dinner is on this Saturday too. The Monmouth Agricultural Fair Board presents this delicious, much anticipated meal every year. Be there between 5 and 7 p.m. and enjoy!

Once again there will be a fun, playful Monte Carlo Night in Wilberforce. The OK Corral will reappear at the Lloyd Watson Hall on Saturday, October 21. Plan to take part in the fun. Wild West attire is encouraged. The Millennium Committee and the Wilberforce Heritage Guild are presenting this fun night of "pretend" gambling this year. Volunteers are needed for the Black Jack dealing tables and other activities. Let us know if you can help. Kathy Rogers, Cathy Agnew, Roberta Walsh, Shirley Riley, Hilda Clark, or any member of the organizing groups would welcome a call.

Into the wild blue yonder

The Stanhope airport Fall Colour Fly-In and Barbecue held on the weekend was deemed a definite success. The beautiful weather saw 85 planes from as far away as Kapuskasing make their way to the airport. Many members of the public also made the trip to watch the aviation activity and enjoy some good food.

709 IN MEMORIAM

MacDUFF, MAXINE - October 3, 1998. In loving memory of a dear wife, mother, grandmother and great grandmother.
Wishing today like so many times before
God had granted you a few years more.
In our hearts you will always be,
To love and cherish but not to see.
Lovingly remembered by Preston and family.

McDONAGH, JACK - October 5, 1998.
Softly the leaves of memory fall
Gently we gather and treasure them all.
Lovingly remembered by wife Faye
and families.

Just to say we still remember.
Always loved and missed, daughter Bessie and family.

PRIPP - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away October 1, 1999.
God looked around His garden
And found an empty place (beside Penny)
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest
God's garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.
Forever loved and deeply missed by wife Eileen, son Jack, and grandchildren Tony and Sherry.

RIEL, WALTER - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away October 3, 1998.

Hold memories that will last forever.
Sadly missed by wife Vera, sons
and families.
